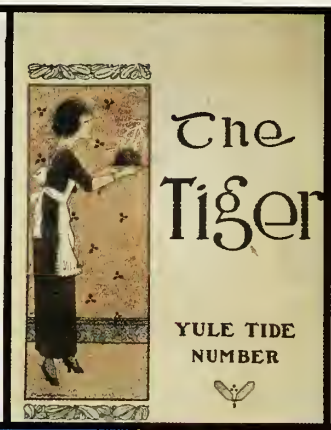
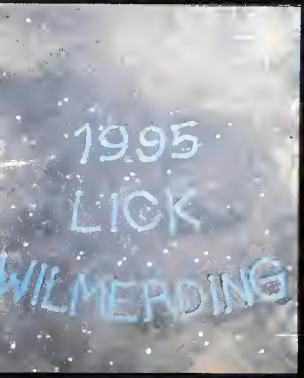
clearly now...

CLEARLY NOW

...the rain is gone





Anniversaries are one of those times when you take a step back from the Right Here and Now to see the road to the Present . The Past. The Future. The spread of alternate realities that fan out like the flight of a hundred escaping doves released on our opening day.

Seems like we love round numbers. One-hundred. Ten times ten. A basic brick of time. Every year the "Tiger" adds another brick to the wall of history. The books that border this page have outlived those who made them, as this one will outlive all of us. Somebody once said, "If you want to know why you're here, look where you've been. If you want to know where you are going, look at what you're doing." If you take a moment, you can see the future, the past, and even the present. Clearly. Enter and sign in.

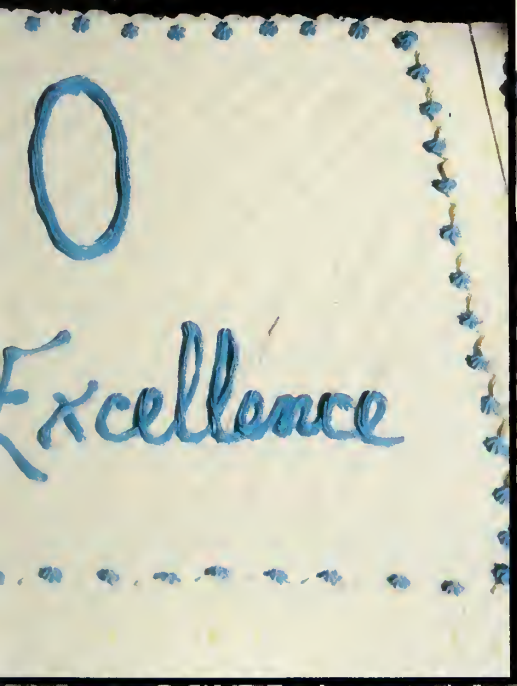
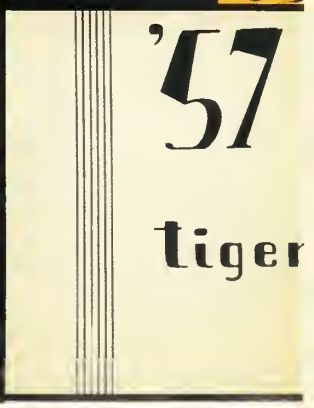
This is all the creation, talent, stress, love, confusion, injustice, education, and life that is Lick-Wilmerding High School. Right Here and Now.





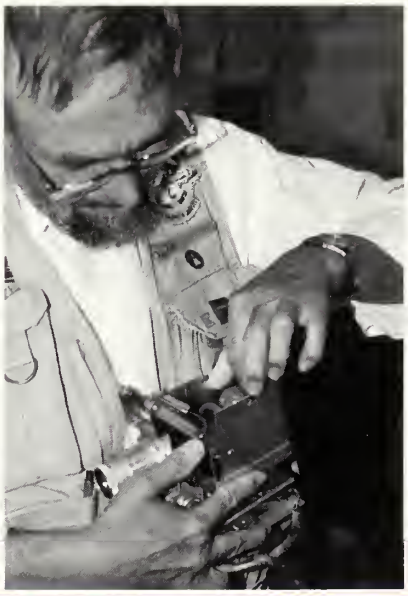
DEDICATION

School is tough. Studying is tough. Taking in a concept, sorting it out, spitting it back out; it's all tough. Everybody has a course that they are afraid of, that they do not think they can do. Sometimes, however, there comes a teacher who helps us overcome those uncertainties; someone who inspires us to take a course in spite of our own fear. Lick has such a teacher, and we, the yearbook staff, would like to celebrate him.

In just six years, Larry Dean has become an inextricable part of the fabric of our school. His warm smile and gentle demeanor make this a more beautiful place to be. His dedication to students is legendary. While other teachers head off on their own adventures during summer and winter breaks, Mr. Dean piles a group of kids into a van and heads, well, out there. Whatever adventure he is on, whether it is camping in Death Valley or doing research at Lawrence Livermore Labs, he always makes sure to take students along for the ride, and the education. "To learn it, you have to do it." he says.

His teaching techniques have helped us not only to understand physics, but enjoy it. The projectile motion experiments in the hallways, the hands-on exercises with everything from fire extinguishers to model airplanes, the famous bowling ball hanging from the ceiling, the list is endless. Thinking of Mr. Dean makes us smile, and not only because he always seems to be smiling back. His humble, self-effacing manner when he assures us that he "really doesn't understand it either" hides a serious concern for the welfare of others as well as a strong dedication to the teaching of his discipline.

We appreciate you, Mr. Dean, and we want to give back to you what you have given to us: human kindness, heartfelt love, and our strongest wish for your happiness. We hereby dedicate the 1996 Tiger to you, Larry Dean.



HEADMASTER'S MESSAGE

What does it mean to be Lick's 100th graduating class? It means that the Class of 1996 represents an end, a continuation and a beginning. You are the end of a century of institutional evolution and excellence. You are the continuation of a collective dream: that of Lick, Wilmerding, Lux, Merrill and ten decades of Lick students, teachers and alumni. And, you are the beginning of a second century which holds challenges, prospects, and possibilities which we can only begin to comprehend.

Your class, like every other in Lick's history, is about continuity and connection. But as the Centennial Class, you are also about foresight and inspiration. During your four years here, the Class of '96 has embodied the very essence of Lick, and you have helped us begin to make sense of the future. On behalf of the generations to come, I thank you for your love of, and commitment to, Lick and its ideals. You are a great Centennial Class! Happy Millennium to you!!

Al Adams

"I can see all obstacles

It's a cold and rainy Monday morning...the hallways gurgle; "What day is it?" "It's Monday," whispers a collection of voices in the background. "No, what DAY is it?" "Day II!" shouts an all-too-happy-it's-Monday-because-I-got-a-lot-of-sleep-this-weekend-voice. Day II, 11:00 a.m. It's Advising time. Lingering in the hallway I find a companion in Matt A-C. We walk slowly to the upper gallery eating yummy Safeway sugar cookies from his lunch. Looking up at the greenhouse ceiling of the gallery, I notice the dismal and indefinite grayness of the sky... and the last remnants of the shaving cream "95" from last year's senior class prank. "Yeah, I think it's about time they got rid of that. '96 is about to leave their lasting impression," I heard. I then realized that I didn't just hear a couple of people saying it, I didn't even hear everyone in my advising group say it. Rather, I heard the single voice of our class in unison.

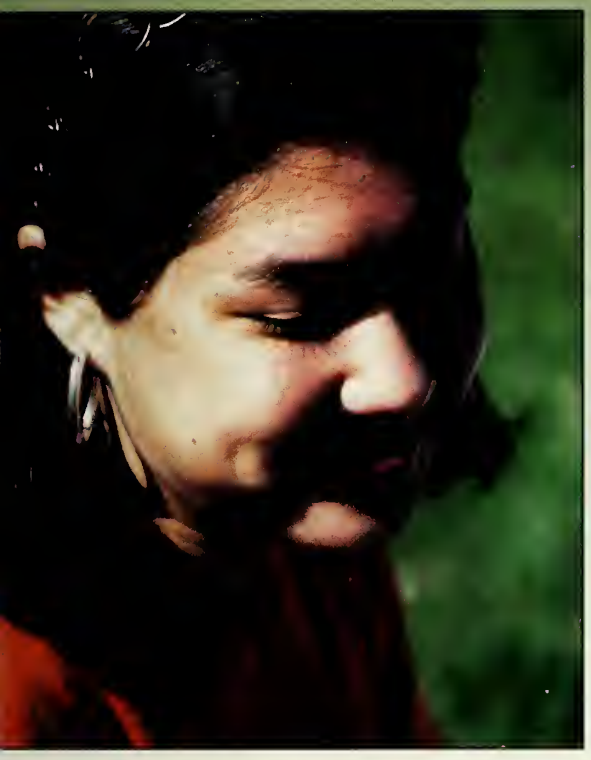
TUESDAY

"What on earth am I doing here at 7:00 in the morning? The sun has barely even reached the top of the horizon. I'm chillin' outside the school waiting for Rose. Oh yeah!! I wanted to do all my homework and pass my classes that's why I only got five hours of sleep and woke up before my pets!! I wonder if all my teachers will be here today. Maybe I'll talk to my advisor about that class that I have to... Damn!!! It's cold out here!!!"

-Eric Baudry

"I think I can M

AKE it now

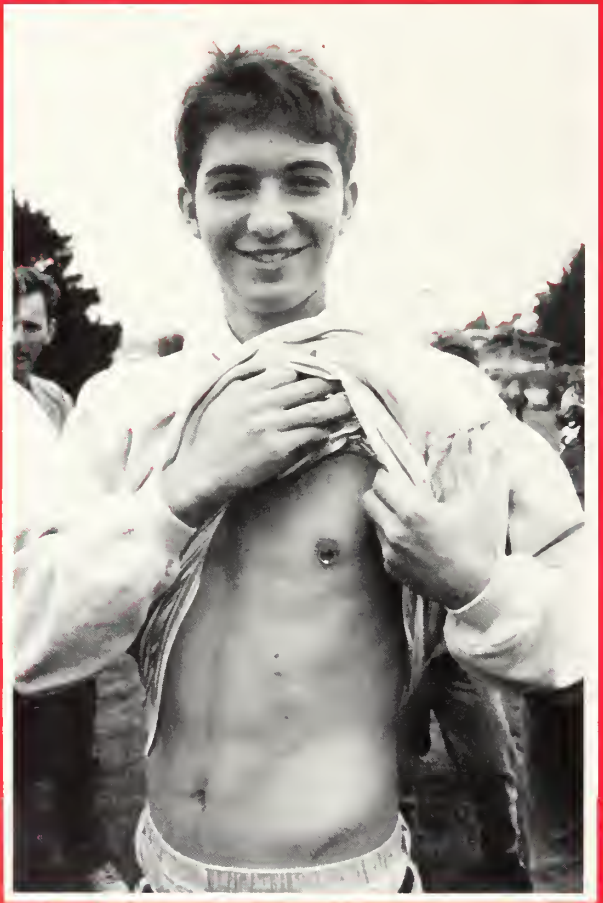


"Wednesday morning. Half way through the week. Only two more nights of endless homework. Three more full days of school. This makes me think about Winnie the Pooh. He once said a little stream would always jump around and race till it got to the river, but once it reached the river, "it did not run and jump and sparkle like it used to do when it was younger, but it now moved more slowly. It knew where it was going and it said to itself, "There is no hurry. We shall get there someday."

-Anya Holland

the rain is gone."

"HERE IS THE RAINBOW I



VE BEEN PRAYIN' FOR..."

Life seems to move at a slower speed on Thursdays. No matter what class you're in, the clock seems to slow down, teacher's lectures no longer have a place in your reality, and finally your attention is turned towards thoughts about what to do over the week-end. Then you come back to reality, you realize that your brain has turned to Jell-o, and second period is about to begin. Thursday is the "in-between" day: you're bummed it's not Friday, but you're excited because the week is almost at a close. What more to say about a day that is lost among the best days and the worst days?

Nate Durbin, '96

"It's gonna be a bright,

Friday, 2:35pm

Yea-ha!

School's out-party down!! Just kidding, we have practice. There are over one hundred student athletes at Lick who condition hard on beautiful Friday afternoons so that we can come on strong on the courts and fields to do our school proud. After a hard day struggling through Precalculus and finishing computer projects before practice time, Lick athletes push hard for the last two hours of the week. We work hard during the week, but it ends up making the week end seem that much brighter.

Yu Tong (Tony), Xia Xiao Man (Hank), and Lu Fan (David) all enjoyed their visit at Lick and felt extremely welcomed at the school and at their hosts' homes. The purpose of their visit was to study and practice English, and to learn more about American customs on a first hand basis.

Rusmir Music also was enthusiastic about his visit to Lick. His favorite class was Chemistry because he enjoyed the elaborate Chemistry labs here at Lick.

Brown and Agile child, the sun which forms the fruit
And ripens the grain and twists the seaweed
Has made your happy body and your luminous eyes
And given your mouth the smile of water.
The black and anguished sun is entangled in the twigs
Of your black mane when you hold out your arms.
You play in the sun as in a tidal river
And it leaves two dark pools in your eyes.
Brown and Agile child, nothing draws me to you,
Everything pulls away from me here in the noon.
You are the delirious youth of a bee,
The drunkenness in the wave, the power in the wheat.
My somber heart seeks you always -
I love your body, your rich, soft voice.
Dusky butterfly, sweet and sure
Like the wheat field, the sun, the poppy, and the water.

Oh, it's time to move on,

it·took·four· The Prophet LONG·YEARZ...

A Prophet, once, in a courtyard, spoke. "People, of what can I speak save of that which is even now moving within your souls? And a youth said, Speak to us of Friendship. And the Prophet answered, saying:
Your friend is your needs answered. She is your field which you sow with love and reap with thanksgiving.
And she is your board and your fireside; for you come to her with your hunger, and you seek her for peace.
When your friend speaks her mind you fear not the "no" in your own mind, nor do you withold the "yes." And when she is silent your heart ceases not to listen to her heart;
For without words, in friendship, all thoughts all desires, all expectations are born and shared, with joy that is unacclaimed.
When you part from your friend, you grieve not; for that which you love most in her may be clearer in her absence.
And let there be no purpose in friendship save the deepening of the spirit.
For love that seeks aught but the disclosure of its mystery is not love but a net cast forth; and only the unprofitable is caught.
And let your best be for your friend, if she must know the ebb of your tide, let her know its flood also. For what is your friend that you should seek her with hours to kill? Seek her always with hours to live.
For it is hers to fill your need, but not your emptiness.
And in the sweetness of friendship let there be laughter, and sharing of pleasures.For in the dew of little things the heart finds its morning and is refreshed.

Then I spoke. Said I, "Speak to us of Love." And with a great voice he said:
When love beckons you follow him, though his ways are hard and steep.
And when his wings enfold you yield to him, though the sword hidden among his pinions may wound you.
And when he speaks to you believe in him, though his voice may shatter your dreams as the north wind lays waste the garden.
For even as love crowns you so shall he crucify you. Even as he is your growth so is he for your pruning. Even as he ascends to your height and caresses your tenderest branches that quiver in the sun, so shall he descend to your roots and shake them in their clinging to the earth.
Like sheaves of corn he gathers you unto himself.
He threshes you to make you naked. He sifts you to free you from your husks. He grinds you to dust. He kneads you until you are pliant.
All these things shall love do unto you that you may know the secrets of your heart, and in that knowledge become a fragment of Life's heart.
But if in your fear you would seek only love's peace and love's pleasure,
Then it is better for you that you cover your nakedness and pass out of love's threshing floor,
Into the seasonless world where you shall laugh, but not all of your laughter, and weep, but not all of your tears.
Love gives naught but itself and takes naught but from itself. Love possesses not nor would it be possessed; love is sufficient unto love.
When you love you should not say, "He is in my heart," but rather, "I am in the heart of him."
And think not that you can direct the course of love, for love, if it finds you worthy, directs your course. Love has no desire but to fulfil itself.
But if you love and must needs have desires, let these be your desires:
To melt and be like a running brook that sings its melody to the night.
To know the pain of too much tenderness.
To be wounded by your own understanding of love; and to bleed willingly and joyfully.
To wake at dawn with a winged heart and give thanks for another day of loving;
To rest at the noon hour and meditate love's ecstasy;
To return home at eventide with gratitude;
And then to sleep with a prayer for the beloved in your heart and a song a praise upon your lips.

THE WISE man can pick up a grain of sand and envision a whole universe. But the stupid man will just lay down on some seaweed and roll around until he's completely draped in it. Then he'll stand up and go, "Hey, I'm Vine Man."

MANDRILL FACTS

1. Mandrills, large fierce baboons, are found living in large groups in the African jungles of Nigeria and the Cameroons.
2. The brilliant red and blue markings on the face are for aggressive displays and communication.
3. They slap the ground with one hand when angry, and shake their upper body and head when they want to be groomed.

We're so busy watching out for what's just ahead of us

Often it takes some calamity to make us live in the present.

Ode to a Big Brother

by Christopher White

I know that you are leaving,
Though I wish that you could stay.
And I know not how to thank you,
For making me who I am today.

You are after all my brother,
And that's what a brother is for.
But I still feel that I must thank you,
'Cause living with me must really have been a chore.

I want you to know that I appreciate
All the things you have done for me.
And know that you now have allowed me
To see what I really can be.

Congratulations, Andrew!

Well, this is the end of a perfect day,
Near the end of a journey, too,
For memory has painted this perfect day
With colors that never fade,
And we find at the end of a perfect day
The soul of a friend we've made.

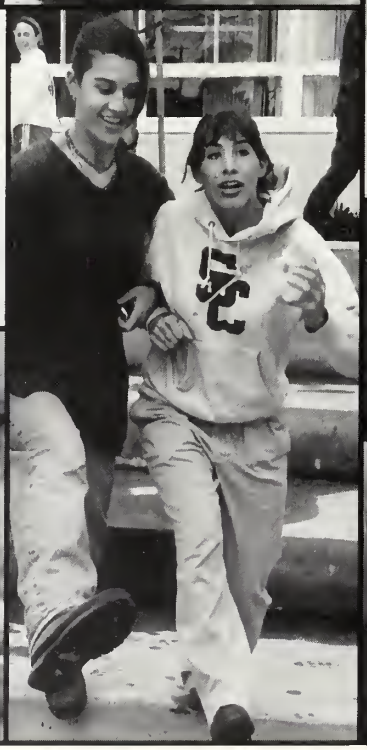
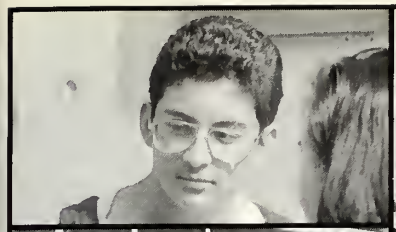
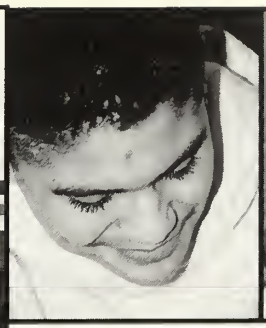
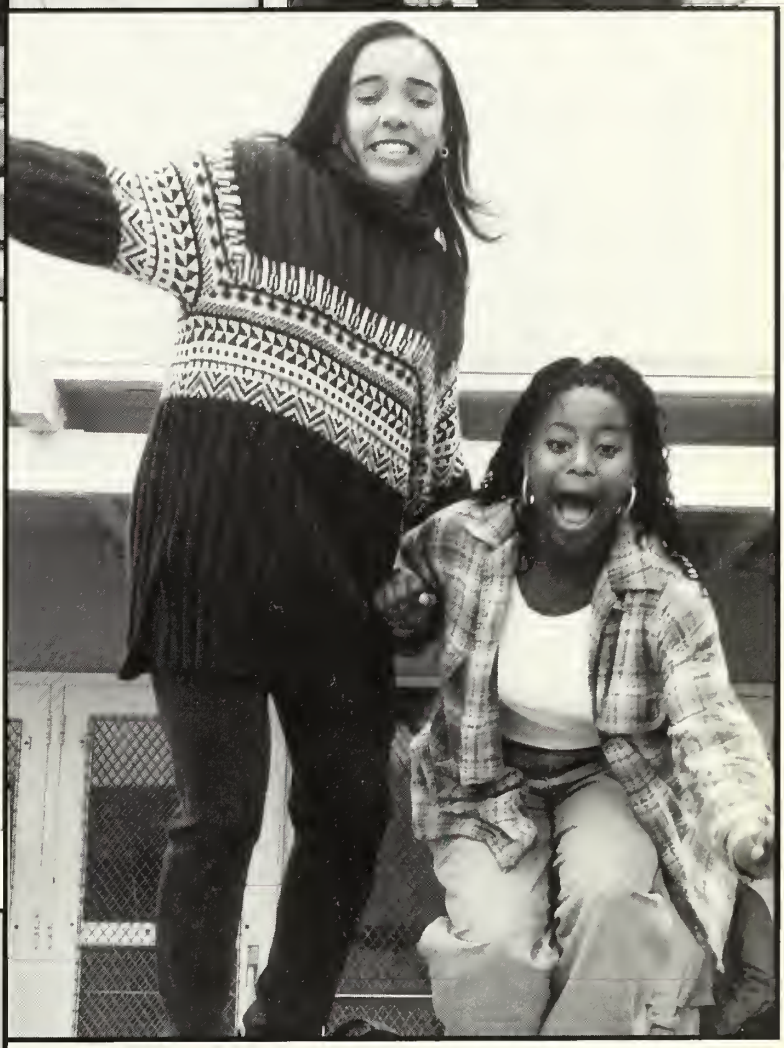
Our Leap Year









So this was our year – our Leap Year. 1996. Did we leap forward? Backward? Did we make a grand show of progress, only to fall back in the same spot? Don't ask us. You are the one in the future. You tell us. We're just leaping. Leaping for the sheer feel of it.
